

Joliet Plant Awarded New Army Contract

Supplementing some $4 million in government contracts awarded to the firm during the past 18 months, the Moore division of Conlon-Moore Corp., in Joliet this week was awarded another $356,860 contract for shell fins by the Chicago Ordnance district of the Army.

H. T. Worthington, vice president of the Conlon-Moore Corp., said today that the Joliet company is one of the top suppliers in the nation of 81 mm. mortar shells for the army. For the past year and a half, the company has been working on army contracts, he explained.

Word of the most recent contract came today from Col. Robert K. Haskell, chief of the Chicago Ordnance District of the Army. He reported contracts amounting to $7,546,343.

A Morris firm, the Northwestern Corp., is listed as receiving a $55,977 contract for burster metal parts for casings.
